Don't Lose Your Patience, Grandpa !

By:
The Protected By Allah

Did you know what happened with my grandfather? This is a useful story that teaches us the benefit of patience, I am going to tell you!

My grandfather was poor. But Allah gave him a fat chicken that used to walk around my grandfather's little hut and purr: Bak, bak, bakiiik!

Bak..Bak..
Bakiiik!

Wait, hen, you will see the wonderful spices I have prepared for you!

But, unfortunately, life contains evil,
selfish people; There was a thief roaming the place when he saw the fat and graceful chicken as it jumped from one place to another and purred: "Bak, bak, bakiiik ! "

Soon, the thief infiltrated his house, brought his knife, and slaughtered the chicken while dreaming of a hearty meal for lunch, forgetting that it was forbidden money. In this time, I discovered the theft and hurried to tell my grandpa, but I was surprised when my grandpa had replied calmly before returning to sleep:

- We belong to Allah and to Him we shall return!.. Allah suffices me, and He is the best disposer of affairs..

We belong to Allah and to Him we shall return..
There is no power but from Allah Almighty!

Patience is the key to relief,
son..

Grandpa, you have to do something.. I saw him jump over the fence
in one jump

This, my son, is a test from God for my patience.
If I succeed, He will compensate me and double my reward!

What?!.. but what about our food, grandpa?!
No more eggs today!

It is amazing! .. My grandfather never got angry even though this chicken was his main source of food, and without it he would not be stuffed, yet he calmed himself down and put his trust in Allah the Almighty to take revenge, and to take his right back from this despicable thief.. And Allah Almighty is the best disposer of affairs!.. So how did Allah the Almighty take revenge on the evil thief in this world?

What I learned later is that when the thief was plucking the feathers of the chicken after boiling water and preparing the spices to cook it, something happened to him that he hadn't thought of, as feathers like the feathers of a chicken grew on his face, so the chicken fell from his hand and he looked at the mirror in terror and bewilderment.. what a shame !.. How will people see him like this?!.. Everyone will laugh!

The thief was confused and angry out of shame, and no matter how hard he tried to pluck the feathers from his face, he was in pain, and immediately the feathers would grow back quickly! .. So of course he realized that this was a punishment from Allah for his theft and taking illegal money from a poor old man who can not work to support himself!

And when the thief became certain of his inability to help himself, he covered his face and went out at night to a friend he knew well and trusted to ask him about the appropriate solution to the predicament he was in, and as soon as the thief uncovered his face, the man burst out laughing, so the thief's face reddened and he shouted angrily:

- What a friend you are!... It's not funny at all!

So the friend swallowed his laughter and listened to his friend's shameful story, then he said:

- You fool!... It is clear that you assaulted a believer who trusted in Allah , so Allah took revenge on you for him, because he was patient with your wickedness and oppression, you thief .

Allah willing, knowledge is the most powerful weapon
and the most successful key!

I'll help you,
provided you stop stealing after that!

The thief shouted: What should I do now that it is too late?

The friend: Well, I have a cunning trick..and I will implement it tomorrow!..so the solution is to make him get angry for himself and pray against you, and so Allah is satisfied with answering his supplication and does not punish you Himself, so these feathers fall!..but I warn you that your punishment will be difficult on the Day of Resurrection if you do not repent!

The next day, the thief's friend, the merchant, knocked on my grandfather's door and said:
- Peace be upon you, old man.. I came from afar to see your graceful chicken.. They told me that it is fat and produces large eggs.. I will buy it from you for three times its price.. What do you think?.. Do you sell?
My grandfather stood rigid, feeling the loss, but he controlled himself and said, bowing his head with sadness and anguish: It was stolen from me..

The merchant shouted : What?.. stolen?!..You poor!.. You lost a lot of money while the thief is luckily enjoying a delicious meal or a lot of money!.. what a clever thief!

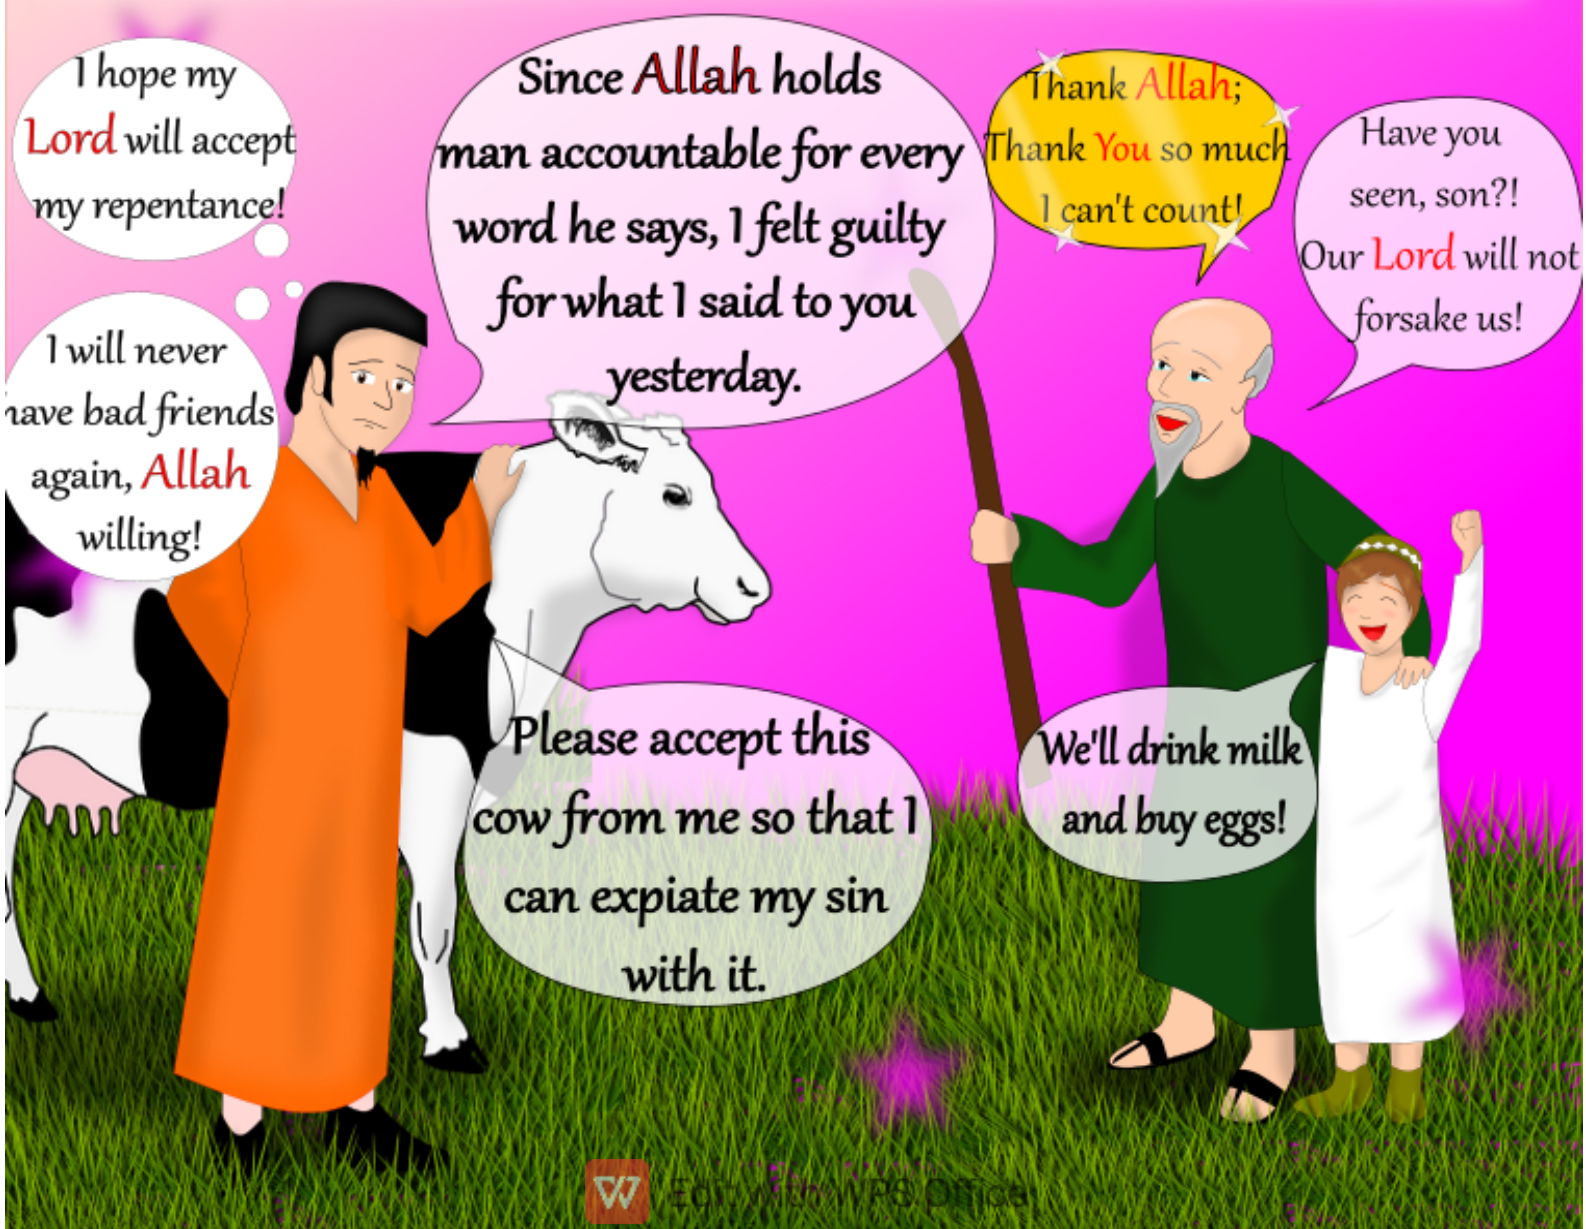

So my grandfather's face turned red with anger and he lost his patience, shouting: Clever??.. He is a criminal.. He ate unlawful food and deprived me of my sustenance.. I ask Allah to deprive him of his sustenance (his food) and make him starve as he deprived me of my precious chicken!

So the fraudster smiled and left victorious to find his friend -the foolish thief- laughing after the feathers were gone from his face because my grandfather lost his patience and got angry for himself, but if my grandfather had remained patient and relied on Allah to take his right in His own way, the reward would have increased, and the feathers remained on the face of the thief to put him in shame forever.. I wish you hadn't lost your patience, grandpa!

In fact, that was a test from Allah for my grandfather's patience, but after that, Allah compensated him for his sustenance when the merchant came repentant and gave us a cow that gives us fresh milk. My grandfather and I broke our fast with joy after we were hungry in the past two night!.. But do you think that the thief will be escaped by his act?

No, of course!.. Allah answered my grandfather's ask; after the thief ate the chicken, he had a severe toothache, so he could no longer eat, and was deprived of his sustenance, indeed, he was in a lot of pain and hungry for a long time!

Can you find then seven differences between the two images?

Can you get the lawful egg out of the maze?
